

Life application task

Key objective: Explore automatic savings strategies to determine which will work best for you.

1. Find out if your employer will split your payroll into multiple accounts. Consider initiating the process by filling out the authorization form to direct a portion of your paycheck into a savings account.

_____ No current job _____ Inquired with payroll dept. __XX__ Started process

2. Find out if your bank's website or app allows for automated transfers. My Chase app has multiple options. Don't just look under one-time transfers. Look for something like "autosave". Record your research here (check all that are available):

_____ My bank does NOT have recurring automated transfer options

_____ Allows automated transfers on a daily basis, as low as $_____ per day

__X__ Allows automated transfers of any $ or % every time you have a deposit from a direct deposit source

__X__ Allows automated transfers of any amount on a set schedule (on the first of the month)

(such as every week, 2 weeks, month, 2x per month)

3. Now that you know about your bank's free automated transfer options, do you plan to make use of them? No: _____ OR Yes __XX__ Briefly explain, or outline your plan here (without disclosing specific dollar amounts).

I have been making use of them, placing a specific percentage of every paycheck of mine into my savings account automatically.

4. Perform a Google search of "best savings apps" and choose one to review. Either go to the website, or look at an online review of that app. Record a few notes about it here. The pros and cons should be from your perspective so that you can decide whether you would want to use it or not.

App selected: SoFi Bank (source)

General idea:	Has a high yield savings option (3.80%) for those with direct deposit enabled. Also has an auto investing roboagent and has automatic transfer options.
Pros:	High yield savings while providing easy access to a checking account through the bank as well. Automatic saving, transfers, and investing is ideal for having my money make money for you. Checking account also makes some interest (<1%).

Cons:	You need to have direct deposit enabled and it needs to be used every month in order to make use of the high yield savings account. The bank is entirely online, so there's no way to go to a branch for any needs like that.
Free? Or Monthly fee:	Completely free, and apparently is offering extra cash to new members who deposit over a certain amount.
